CARPENTERS AND CONTRACTORS in Kelowna remained deadlocked today after contractors enforced a lockout Wednesday against members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Building In Kelowna Stalled - Carpenters Dispute Unsettled

Construction in Kelowna has been slowed down or stalled but the carpenter-contractor dispute remains unsettled.

Some $2,000,000 worth of construction in the area has been affected by the contractors' lockout of carpenters belonging to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

The carpenters have not picketed construction sites and subtrades continue to work. The carpenter lockout will likely delay completion dates on construction projects.

Hardest hit are school buildings in School District 23 (Kelowna). School board officials say the buildings may not be ready in time for school opening.

Lockout Started Late Wednesday

The dispute involves union demands for a shorter work week with no pay loss. They are seeking a 40-cent hourly wage increase in a two-year contract and reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 37½ hours starting in October, 1967. Base rate is $3.49 an hour.

The lockout came late Wednesday after major contractors in the province threatened to go through with the lockout if any single contractor was picketed by carpenters.

About 150 companies, employing close to 3,000 carpenters, threatened lockout but a union spokesman in Vancouver said Thursday almost 1,000 carpenters are still working for companies that refused to enforce the lockout.

The union, meanwhile, moved quickly to protest any provincial government moves to intervene in the lockout by appointment of an industrial inquiry commissioner.

In a telegram to Labor Minister Peterson, the union warned that "intrusion" in the dispute will prolong the partial shutdown of the industry.

Mr. Peterson said at a Vancouver press conference Wednesday the government might appoint a commissioner on its own if neither of the disputants asks for one.

R. K. Gervin, spokesman for the construction industry's joint negotiating committee, said contractors would probably agree to appointment of a commissioner, but so far the employers' negotiating committee has not requested the appointment.

The Kelowna city council accepted the board's report saying it was reasonable and fair to both sides.

Ald. D. A. Chapman, head of the city's negotiating team, agreed little or no progress had been made.

Plans were made to continue negotiations next week. If a settlement is not reached by Monday the union has the right to call for a government-supervised strike.

The government must be told by Monday what the city and union did with the conciliation board's report.

Workers Refuse To Enter Pulpmill

NANAIMO (CP) — Day shift workers, members of the break-away Canadian Union of Pulp and Paper Workers Union, refused to enter MacMillan and Bloedel's big pulp mill at nearby Harmac today until a meeting with company officials was arranged.

Company officials said mid night shift workers were being kept on overtime until noon, a relief relieved by the day shift. Only non-union workers entered the mill this morning.

B.C. Poll Sept. 12 - Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's two daily newspapers, The Sun and The Province, say Premier Bennett today will set Sept. 12 as election day in British Columbia.

The Province said today the premier is expected to make the election announcement at a press conference this afternoon in Victoria, after driving back to the provincial capital from the Okanagan.

The Sun said Thursday the premier would make the announcement "within 24 hours." Sept. 12 has been forecast since March as one of the likeliest election dates. Today is the last day on which Mr. Bennett could call an election on that date and still comply with the Elections Act.

In Penticton Thursday, the premier said: "One swallow doesn't make a summer — but there have been an awful lot of swallows lately."

Mr. Bennett's Social Credit government has been in power since 1952. The last B.C. election was held Sept. 30, 1963. Although the statutory election term is five years, it traditionally is four years or less.

Standing in the 52-seat legislature: Social Credit 32, NDP 14, Liberal five, vacant one. A redistribution of ridings this spring brings the number of seats to be contested in the next election to 55.

REFUSES JOHNSON DINNER LONDON (AP) — Philosopher Bertrand Russell said Thursday night he has refused to attend a New York dinner to honor President Johnson because he is guilty of war crimes in Viet Nam. Russell, 94, made public an exchange of letters on the dinner, sponsored by the Protestant Council, at which Johnson is to receive The Family of Man award in October.

REPORTER DEFENDS QUOTE

Beatle 'Wasn't Irreverent'

LONDON (AP) — Maureen Cleave, whose interview with John Lennon set off a wave of Beatle hounding in the United States, said today that Lennon actually deplores the fact that some people know The Beatles better than they know Christ.

"I do not think for moment that he intended to be flippant or irreverent," said Miss Cleave. "He was certainly not comparing The Beatles with Christ."

At least one Canadian station has joined the boycott.

MORE POPULAR Miss Cleave's interview with Lennon was first published in the London Evening Standard in March.

an impression of his views that is totally absurd." Remarks by Lennon about Christianity, quoted by Miss Cleave in an interview that was reprinted in an American magazine this week, aroused a storm on some U.S. radio stations, particularly in the southern bible belt. A number of stations banned the quartet's records, and urged listeners to join the boycott.

That was all the 1,600-word article had to say about religion. In a telephone interview today Miss Cleave commented: "I am astonished that John's quotation should have been taken out of the context of my article and misinterpreted in this way."

Men of Steel Win Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — A united steel industry appeared to have emerged the victor today in a war of nerves to raise prices on some of its products in the face of pressure by the U.S. government to hold the price line.

The $2- and $3-a-ton increases in the price of steel sheet and strip—the kind used in automobiles and other consumer goods—were called modest and un-consequential by the industry but denounced by the Johnson administration as irresponsible and inflationary.

Through Thursday night, however, 11 companies had announced price increases effective next Wednesday on about 30 per cent of their output.

The Washington Post reports Johnson definitely has decided to let the steel price increase stand. The Post says the president decided there is nothing he can do to force a price rollback.

The increases mark the second major economic defeat for the Johnson administration within a week.

Only last weekend, striking airline machinists overwhelmed ingly rejected a contract agreement worked out under White House auspices which called for a six-to-seven-per-cent increase in wages and other benefits, well beyond the administration's 3.2-per-cent wage-price guidelines. Those same guidelines call for relative price stability.

Johnson withheld direct comment on the steel price increase until Thursday with announcements by eight companies. Three others had announced increases earlier, beginning with Inland Steel Tuesday night.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the president felt the public interest was violated by the price decisions. He said it is the president's view that the effect of the price increases won't be visible immediately but will show up in time.

Moyers declined to say what further action, if any might be taken.

The industry cited increased labor and material costs as factors in the decision to boost prices.

East Germans 'Foiled U.S. Bid' To Capture MiG Jet Fighter

BERLIN (Reuters)—A prosecutor told the East German High Court today the security service has foiled an attempt by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to induce an East German pilot to fly a MiG-21 jet fighter to the West.

A story of cover names and secret messages was unfolded at the opening of a trial of three Germans accused of acting as agents for the CIA and the West German secret service.

The three men, Guenter Laudahn, 36, an electrical engineer, Hans - Juergen Hanke, 22, a waiter, and Werner Baecker, 29, a lathe operator, were described in the indictment as East German citizens who had gone to live in West Berlin.

Deputy Prosecutor Gen. Guenter Wendland said Laudahn was trained as a CIA agent after "breaking out" of East Berlin in 1962.

He was sent to East Berlin in April to make contact with the brother of a pilot and offer him high pay and favorable treatment if he would fly a Soviet-built MiG-21 jet to West Germany. It would be escorted by Western fighters once it crossed the border, the prosecutor said.

On his second visit to East Berlin Laudahn was arrested by the East German security services while carrying a radio receiver and a coded letter, Wendland said.

Hanke was alleged to have been involved in a plan to build a 200-yard tunnel from West Berlin under the Berlin wall so that armed West Berlin agents could smuggle East Berliners to the West.

Baecker was accused of being involved in a plan to smuggle two East German scientists across the Bulgarian border into Turkey for the CIA. The trial is scheduled to last five days.

Donna DeRier had been struck repeatedly on the head and chest with a four-foot wooden plank. Three other teenage girls have been fatally beaten in adjoining Monmouth and Ocean counties since last September. The slayings all are unsolved.

BATMAN, ROBIN OUTNUMBERED

LEICESTER (Reuters) — Batman and Robin turned tail and fled Thursday as thousands of screaming children ran riot through a department store in this English city trying to catch their heroes.

For more than an hour, the rampaging children streamed around counters and scrambled over displays as they formed into groups to hunt down the dynamic duo.

But the cape crusaders managed a quick disappearing act down a back staircase.

The trouble began when the store arranged for two men to dress as Batman and Robin to promote a movie.

But instead of an expected 300 young fans arriving to see them, more than 5,000 turned up.

'War' Looms In Interior

VICTORIA (CP) — About 65 men of the first battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, left here by air today to engage in war games with 80 British soldiers in the British Columbia interior.

The territorial army soldiers from England will arrive in Prince George, B.C. by air Saturday to take part in one week of commando training exercises near Williams Lake.

The British soldiers, representing two regiments of the Special Air Services Group, will have the task of destroying an "enemy" objective held by the QORs.

This is the first time the Special Air Services Group has been assigned summer training in Canada. They will leave for Britain from Prince George Aug. 16.

ASHCROFT (CP)—One person was killed and five others injured Thursday night in a two-car crash 10 miles south of Ashcroft.

Three of the injured were in critical condition in hospital and two were listed as "good."

Police withheld names but said all are related.

RCMP said the crash occurred during a driving hail and rain storm.

They said the same storm later caused several mud slides five miles north of Spences Bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway. Traffic was bumper-to-bumper for six miles on either side of the slide area.

Niagara River Gives Up Body

Police said the body of Mrs. Edward Marylewski of Depew, a Buffalo suburb, was identified by her husband.

Fourth Attack Within Week Aimed At Reds' Escape Route

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B-52 bombers raided the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam for the fourth time in a week today, then pounded two North Vietnamese positions close to the Cambodian border.

The latter attacks apparently were intended to stop the North Vietnamese pulling back into Cambodian sanctuary.

The U.S. Command said the enemy broke contact with 10,000 U.S. troops 25 miles southwest of Pleiku City Thursday. Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, there was only scattered, minor ground action.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. pilots flew 83 missions Thursday, including a raid on the northeast regional military headquarters 24 miles northeast of Haiphong.

The pilot sighted three surface-to-air missiles within 10 miles of Haiphong but all three missed.

HIT OIL DEPOTS Other targets included nine oil installations. Pilots said they damaged or destroyed 59 barges, 38 storage buildings, nine bridges and 20 trucks.

The B-52s returned from Guam for another strike while the International Control Commission is investigating complaints from both North and South Viet Nam on military activities in the zone.

Hanoi says U.S. bombs landed on its side of the strip, inflicting civilian casualties. Saigon charges that North Viet Nam is sending men and supplies into the south through the area.

Canada, an ICC member, voiced concern over any violation of the demilitarized zone, created under the 1954 Geneva armistice agreement. Informed sources in Ottawa said Canada was pressing the other ICC members, India and Poland, for a full investigation but so far had only India's support.

KILL 20 VIET CONG In the Mekong delta, Vietnamese militiamen killed 20 Viet Cong on a search-and-destroy operation 65 miles southwest of Saigon.

A disclosure in Washington, that 30 U.S. military men have been killed in Laos since 1964 indicated a rise of U.S. military activity in that neighboring country. Most of those killed were airmen.

U.S. pilots have been bombing Communist infiltration routes in eastern Laos but officials decline to comment on the raids in an attempt to avoid embarrassing the officially neutral Laotian government.

Political Ally Of Johnson Wins Tennessee Nomination

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ellington had 368,443 votes to 322,535 for Hooker. Baker polled 103,164 and Kenneth Roberts 33,636.

The primaries are being held to select candidates for the general elections in November.

Two Negro civil rights leaders became the first of their race to gain election to the county court of Haywood County in west Tennessee. Dan Nixon and A. D. Powell, both farmers, took narrow victories in the county that has been the scene of several racial incidents in recent months.

Ellington, 59, was governor from 1959-63 before joining the Johnson administration. He made only slight mention of his Washington connections during the campaign.

Hooker quoted the late president John F. Kennedy frequently but denied the race was an appropriate barometer of the comparative strength of Johnson and Senator Robert F. Kennedy (Dem. N.Y.).

J. C. GILMER
... jet order

Canadian Pacific Airlines is considering buying up to $25,000,000 worth of new jet aircraft for its B.C. and Yukon routes it was announced today. This news was given to a Penticton Peach Festival luncheon Thursday by CPA president J. C. Gilmer.

Gilmer said the company is at present evaluating new aircraft for its domestic routes. Included in the survey are the Douglas WC-9, the Boeing 737 and the Boeing 727.

Roderick McIntosh, 27-year-old pilot from Burnaby, escaped uninjured Thursday when his single-engine plane made a forced landing near Castleton, Ont. He was flying from Kingston to Vancouver. The plane was damaged slightly.

Two retired naval officers Thursday supported the proposed armed forces council which will consider steps for integration and unification of the armed forces. Rear-Admiral William Landymore, fired last month as Canada's sea operations chief, said an armed forces council might work in solving a lack of communication between Ottawa and the commanders. Retired Rear-Admiral H. F. Fullen, who supported Admiral Landymore's stand against unification, said "anything will be an improvement" but warned the council would not solve all the problems.

Back-To-Air Word Waited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. House of Representatives today begins its attempt to deal with the U.S. airlines strike—but any government action to get the planes flying again remained days away.

The election year battle which raged before the Senate passed a strike-stopping legislation Thursday was certain to be renewed—perhaps intensified—in the house.

The first step there is a public hearing before the commerce committee and Representative Harley O. Staggers (Dem. W. Va.), the chairman said the hearings probably would continue until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Then the committee would have to decide whether to accept, reject or alter the joint resolution the Senate passed.

The Senate move would have Congress order striking members of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) back to work for 30 days, and hand President Johnson authority to extend that period to six months.

Ignored SENATORS Johnson ignored the demands of debating senators that he take a stand on strike-ending legislation, but did relay word that if there is to be a law, he prefers the version approved by the Senate to one which would assign him the whole task of issuing any back-to-work commands.

Organized labor bitterly opposed the legislation and there were hints from the union of slower work if Congress orders the strike halted.

"Men don't like to be forced to work against their will," said union president P. L. (Roy) Seimiller.

The resolution authorized federal court action to enforce by injunction its no-strike provisions.

The strike is in its 30th day against United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines.

Key terms of the three-step measure to halt the strike: —With Johnson's signature writing the resolution into law, the 35,400 machinists would be ordered back to their jobs for a month.

—Johnson could appoint a special airlines dispute board to mediate renewed contract talks. This would extend for 60 days the no-strike freeze.

—On recommendations from that panel, the president could extend the order for another 90 days.

If five months passed with no contract settlement, he would be under instructions to send Congress a report and recommendations for new action.

The machinists Sunday rejected a proposed three-year contract which called for wage increases of 36 cents an hour—18 cents each first 18 months, 19 more cents next July 1 and another 19 cents July 1, 1968.

Fringe benefits would have increased the total gains to 72 cents over a three-year period.

Current wages average $3.25 an hour, with top-rated mechanics earning $3.52 an hour.

It is estimated the strike is costing the airlines $7,000,000 a day in lost revenue and the striking machinists $1,000,000 a day in lost wages.

Nigeria's Moslem North Holds Meeting On Future

LAGOS (Reuters)—The military governor of Nigeria's Moslem north has summoned tribal emirs and chiefs to meet him today to discuss the future of this troubled African nation.

An announcement said Lt.-Col. Hassan Katsina called them to Kaduna, the administrative centre of the area.

It was suspicion among Hausa northerners who feared domination by the Ibo peoples of Nigeria's southeast, that apparently touched off last weekend's army mutiny—the second to rock the country this year.

The mutineers kidnapped the head of state, Ma-Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi. His place was taken by Lt.-Col. Yakubu Gowon, 31.

At a press conference Thursday the colonel expressed opposition to Ironsi's plan to divide Nigeria into a single state, abolishing tribal-based regions.

He also promised a quick return to civilian rule, ended in January's military revolt which toppled the federal government of prime minister Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, who died during the disturbances.

Unconfirmed rumors in Lagos said Ironsi suffered the same fate, executed by soldiers who captured him Friday.

The new regime, meanwhile, released a number of civilian politicians jailed under the prime minister's regime or detained since its overthrow.

Texas Sniper 'A Crazy Man'

AUSTIN (AP) — Charles Joseph Whitman was a "crazy, deranged" man as he prepared to kill and die Monday, a grand jury report says.

Whitman stabbed and shot his mother to death, fatally knifed his wife and then climbed to the observation level above the 27th floor of the University of Texas tower from where he shot 13 persons to death and wounded 31 others.

Finally, Austin police aided by a lone civilian rushed him and shot him to death.

The grand jury said a small tumor close to the brain stem undoubtedly caused him much mental pain and possibly contributed to his lunatic actions.

Dr. Coleman de Chenar, however, said the pecan-size, non-malignant tumor "could not have had any influence on the psychic behavior." Dr. Chenar, a pathologist, did the Whitman autopsy.

Thursday night in Lake Worth, Fla., hometown of the Whitman family, Rev. Eugene Quinlan said full rites of the Roman Catholic church were to be given. Whitman on the assumption he was demented when he killed.

Soviet And U.S. In Accord On Pact For Space Activities

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union have reached broad agreement on a framework of ground rules to govern man's activities in space, on the moon and on other celestial bodies.

They agreed that space and the planets should be freely accessible to all without distinction, that no state should appropriate any part of them and that man's conduct in space should be reserved to peaceful purposes and ruled by the concepts of international law and the United Nations charter.

The accord was reached during four weeks of discussions in the legal subcommittee of the UN committee on the peaceful use of outer space, which went into recess here Thursday.

But it failed to work out a complete treaty to govern "the exploration and use" of space and celestial bodies.

Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov refused to accept two U.S. proposals. One is that a state's stations, satellites and vehicles in outer space and on the planets should at all times be open to representatives of other states; the other provides that space powers should fully inform the world's scientists and the public of their activities and their findings in space.

U.S. delegate Arthur J. Goldberg told correspondents the United States will not sign any space treaty which does not contain these two key provisions. He expressed how the Soviet Union will change its position and agree to the American ideas when the committee meets again in New York next month.

As he quit the meeting, Frank Cousins, labor union leader who recently resigned as minister for technology because of the freeze, said he will boycott further sessions.

He left after heated dispute with Deputy Prime Minister George Brown, who suggested Cousins was siding with the Conservative Opposition.

Cousins protested against power the government is seeking to enforce a wages standstill. He voted Thursday against a clause in the prices and incomes bill providing for a year-long freeze and incomes freeze. The clause was approved by a 13-to-11 vote. Another Labor member of the committee abstained.

The 25 committee members are preparing the bill so it can be rushed through Parliament before the summer recess. Their meeting lasted until long after dawn.

There can't be a better way to spend a summer day than by watching someone else work. These elevated side-they have an unobstructed view of the action. At least the fence is a better place to be than in the hot cab of the

Gen. Anderson Planning Visit

Lt. Col. T. C. Chapman, commanding officer of The British Columbia Dragoons announced today that his regiment will be honored by a visit Aug. 21 of Gen. Sir John Anderson, commander of the Imperial Defence College, and colonel of their affiliated Army Regiment the 5th Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards.

Gen. Anderson will arrive at the Kelowna airport at about 9:30 a.m. Aug. 21, make a tour of the Summerland Experimental Farm, lunch at Peachland, and return to Kelowna in the afternoon by boat for a tour of local industrial and orchard areas.

A formal dinner in his honor will take place at the Kelowna Armory that evening, when the general will meet the serving BCD officers, senior NCOs and their wives, as well as receiving the strong service ties that have bound the two regiments together for so many years. Gen. Anderson will leave by plane Aug. 22.

wood Ave., appeared for decision on a charge of passing without a license. He was fined $50.

The charge arose as a result of an accident on Lakeshore Rd. at 8:40 p.m. June 4.

A. W. Bilsland, Kelowna lawyer, asked for the minimum penalty as he said it was not "a flagrant violation", his client was driving alertly and not at excessive speed.

In passing sentence the magistrate said the young driver must exhibit courtesy on the highway and that the accident might have had serious results.

John Edward Higgins, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $50 or in default 30 days in jail. He was arrested Thursday at 9 p.m. at the Willow Inn bus depot.

The accused told the magistrate he was in Kelowna looking for work.

"You won't find it in a state of intoxication," the magistrate said.

In magistrate's court Thursday, John Stefanyshin, Kelowna, was convicted of a charge of speeding and fined $35.

On a similar charge Donald Falck, RR 2, pleaded guilty and was fined $125. He was followed by police at speeds up to 100 m.p.h. on Highway 97. His licence was suspended for two months.

10-YEAR-OLD 'EXPERTS'

4-H Youngsters Learn Early

By SUZANNE ZWARUN

Mix together one child and one calf.

Add the experience and encouragement of a sympathetic adult and a group of teenage friends.

Allow one year's growth and maturity.

The result—one healthy calf and a child who has learned something about life, about success and failure, hard work and play, comradeship and sportsmanship.

That's the recipe for 4-H clubs across Canada. More than 80,000 children, belonging to more than 2,500 clubs, are involved in learning by doing.

Whether they belong to dairy clubs or beef clubs, home arts or garden clubs, honey or sheep clubs, the children are learning the basics of what may someday be their means of livelihood.

The emphasis in 4-H clubs today is on the child's training and character development, says Bill Bulman, leader of the Kelowna 4-H Beef Club.

At one time, Mr. Bulman explained, 4-H clubs tended to place more emphasis on the project. The children were secondary.

CHILDREN IMPORTANT Now the project is a means to the end. The children are the important ingredient.

In the Kelowna district, 58 children belong to four 4-H clubs: dairy, beef, home arts, and garden.

The 4-H Garden Club of Kelowna is the newest, formed last March and has six members.

The largest club is the beef, with 20 members. Dairy and beef clubs are the oldest in Kelowna. They started in the early 1950s with 10 members each.

Members are mostly rural youngsters but city children are welcome to join.

The only qualifications are age and, in dairy and beef, a calf and facilities to keep it.

Members must be between 10 and 21 years old.

QUITE CAPABLE Surprisingly, 10-year-olds are quite capable of raising, showing and selling cattle.

Leaders of 4-H clubs guide the members but don't try "to run the show," Mr. Bulman said.

The beef club is fairly typical of all 4-H clubs. Children work at their project throughout the year, exhibit at fairs and are judged.

They take exams, win merit certificates, even branch into practical farm management.

Four 4-H Beef Club members, the year begins somewhere between January and March. The child purchases a year-old calf and begins raising it.

Complete records are kept, all expenses are recorded.

TRIES ARMSTRONG The calf is fattened during the summer and fall. For experience the child sometimes takes his calf to a show. The Armstrong Exhibition next month is a club show in Kelowna scheduled at the end of this month.

But this is only to gain experience. The real test comes in November at the Provincial Winter Fair in Kamloops.

This is "achievement day" for the 4-H member. The calf goes before the judges, competes against 250 other 4-H calves.

The member is also judged (in his own age group) on his showmanship and sportsmanship.

The year's project is completed by selling the calf—sometimes tearfully—at auction.

With the records he has kept throughout the year, the member knows whether he's made money.

"But a profit isn't necessarily guaranteed," says Mr. Bulman with a smile.

SIMILAR CYCLE The dairy club cycle is similar but the calf is bought in the fall. Neither is it sold at the end of the year. When the cow breeds, the project starts again with a new calf and eventually a herd is raised.

Achievement day for the dairy people comes in September at the Armstrong fair.

Members become eligible for senior proficiency exams when they are 14 years old. The hour-and-a-half written exam tests their knowledge of animals, or whatever their club specialty, and the business of farming.

When exams are passed, members are in the "senior group" and the department of agriculture lends a hand. The department will pay expenses to 4-H club work in Denver or exchange visits to other provinces.

Junior farm management programs are another possibility for 4-H members although no one in this area has yet progressed to this point.

At 18, a member can branch into the program. He then takes over and operates a section of his father's farm independently with the guidance of the 4-H club. The section is operated like a business, records are kept, the basics of farm management are learned.

The home arts girls also take exams, earn merit certificates. Emphasis in these clubs is on sewing, clothes design and cooking.

Public speaking is an important aspect of all the clubs. Members practice at meetings and they learn how to organize and conduct meetings and work on committees, Mr. Bulman says.

The 4-H club movement originated in the U.S. prior to the First World War and quickly spread to Canada.

In Kelowna, Mr. Bulman is leader of the beef club with Archie Hardy, Benvoulin, as assistant leader.

Jim McMillan, Benvoulin, is leader of the dairy club.

Mrs. Malcolm Allen directs the garden club.

Mrs. Frank Smallhorn, Ambros Rd., is the leader of the home arts club. Assistant leaders are Mrs. W. J. Kinney, Okanagan Mission; Mrs. William Gordon, East Kelowna; and Mrs. Alfred Tucker, Vernon Rd.

Transportation The Theme Of Sunday Night Movies

A ritual drum dance, the drum hunt, the ritual drum dance is performed to guide the hunters to the kill.

The other three films on Sunday's show, the Romance of Transportation, Railroaders and the Columbia, were all made by the National Film Board.

Railroaders won the International Film Festival award at Locarno, Switzerland.

ROGERS PASS SETTING Winter railroading in the Rockies is the topic of Railroaders. The stars are the men who keep the lines clear. The film tells of the section hands and maintenance men, the train crews and telegraph operators who keep traffic moving through the snow-choked Revelstoke to Field section of Canada's railway network.

The Columbia is a 10-minute portrait of a wild river that, if and when it is fully tamed, will be the world's largest single source of electricity.

Beginning its westward trek to the Pacific in the mile-high peaks of the Selkirk, the Columbia's torrent flows unfettered through B.C. but below the Canadian border a series of power dams supply energy to the northwest U.S. How much more power is possible from developments on the Canadian side is outlined in this film.

The Romance of Transportation is a whimsical film about a down-to-earth subject—how Canada's vast distances and great natural obstacles were brought under control.

A beuplumed Jacques Cartier, a frost-tipped coureur du bois, a serpentine Prairie train are featured in a comic treatment in this animated film.

Transportation has won ten film awards, including the Cannes International Film Festival and an Academy Award.

4-H Gardners Holding Exhibit Plans are being made by members of the 4-H Garden Club of Kelowna to hold a display of vegetables they have grown, sometime this month.

The club was formed in March and has six members, Glenda Kinney, club reporter, said. Each member must have a vegetable garden and keep records of the products grown. Leader is Mrs. Malcolm Allen.

Six meetings were held since March and members toured two vegetable gardens belonging to club members and the commercial garden of Sam Low on Swamp Rd.

Club record books and gardens were inspected by Kenneth Hansen, of Vernon, assistant district horticulturist. In July the club received a visit from Elizabeth Ledwell, Scarston, Nfld., a 4-H exchange member.

Four Channels Due Here Soon Workmen are busy this week in the Lake Ave. area installing a sub trunk line for four channel cable television.

The sub trunk, connecting with the main trunk from Walker Mt. in Westbank, will feed all distribution areas in Kelowna.

Black Knight Television Company is supplying cable television to Kelowna. For the hook-up Kelowna has been divided into eight blocks. The sub trunk now being installed will service all eight blocks, plus the Glenmore, Mission and Rutland areas when they are connected.

Three U.S. television channels, CHBC television and the CKOV-FM radio channel will be carried over the cable.

The changeover in Block A should start within two weeks, Dick Gunoff, Black Knight manager, said today.

Black A runs from Royal Ave. to Ellis St., Pandosy St. and the Queensway and the area in between.

Mr. Gunoff estimates it will take up to a year to hook-up the eight blocks. Once the city has been connected, Black Knight will extend the four-channel system to adjoining areas.

Alpine Flowers Will Be Checked A sight-seeing tour of the Alpine flowers at Big White Mountain is planned by members of the Central Okanagan Naturalists Club.

Club members will leave the Shops Capri parking lot at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The washrooms and chalet are open at Big White but food service is unavailable. The club executive reminds all members to pack a lunch and stock up with mosquito repellent.

Success, Failure Depends On Number Of People Hit

A familiar fever is creeping into Kelowna, one Regatta officials are hoping will reach epidemic proportions.

The contagious illness is Regatta fever and the number of people it strikes will determine the success of this year's 60th International Regatta.

With less than five days before the show opens Wednesday, everything appears to be ready. Final problems were ironed out at an executive meeting Thursday.

Headline performers scheduled to appear at the Regatta night show include vocalists Bonnie Guitart and Frankie Laine and Jerry Murad's Harmonicats.

Miss Guitart will appear at 8 p.m. Wednesday with Lance Harrison and his band, and the Lang Troupe, the world-famous acrobatic family.

WATER EVENTS Also featured are original water ballet and paddle board numbers under the direction of Jan Wood. The numbers will be presented during all four nights of the Regatta.

A spectacular open-water illuminated boat display by members of the Kelowna Yacht Club rounds out the Wednesday night entertainment.

Miss Guitart is the featured attraction again Thursday in a line-up that includes the Harmonicats and clown and exhibition diving by Eddy Cole and his group of professional divers.

The Kelowna Yacht Club's boat display and Eddy Cole's troupe of divers are included in Friday's program, headlined by this year's Regatta star, Frankie Laine.

Mr. Laine returns Saturday night in a program highlighted by the crowning of the Lady-of-the-Lake.

Also appearing is Eddy Cole and his troupe and the Harmonicats.

The Regatta wind-up dance will be held in the Memorial Arena at the conclusion of the night show.

A committee review at the executive meeting indicates this year's Regatta will be the largest and most successful in history. A total of 534 swimmers are entered in various swimming events, the Regatta parade Thursday is drawing a record number of entries and the introduction of an anniversary ball is getting amazing support.

REGATTA BRIEFS

Music Will Fill The Air With 12 Bands Due Here

A total of 12 bands will perform in various street parades during the Regatta. The 35-piece Edmonton School Boys' Band and the Vancouver Firemen's Band are featured among the entries.

Expenditure sheets have been given to all Regatta committee heads following the show's new policy of recording all expenditures. Committee heads will return the sheets to secretary, Jim Donald, the Monday after the Regatta.

Regatta officials expressed hope Thursday that spectator boats will keep well back of the course during hydroplane races at the Regatta.

The Kelowna Teen Town will run the lost and found booth during the Regatta. The lost and found will be set up in a St. office.

The location of the Regatta office is confusing many visitors. To offset the problem, signs will be placed throughout the city giving the location of the Mill St. office.

Area Employment Picture Better Than One Year Ago

Although there was only a slight decrease in the number of people seeking work in July, compared with June, there are still fewer people seeking work than for the same period one year ago, says D. M. Disney, manager of the local office of the National Employment Service.

Month-end figures totalled 934 workers (550 men, 384 women) and in the same period one year ago the total was 1,081 (542 men, 539 women). Among the male skilled people seeking work are 16 carpenters, 41 truck and tractor operators. There are 26 unskilled workers seeking employment in lumbering and lumber products and 131 unskilled workers seeking employment in the construction trades.

Among the women, the majority are clerical workers numbering 107, sales clerks and salespersons, 33. Domestic and personal service workers number 49. There is a demand for experienced waitresses and fully qualified hairdressers remain in short supply.

"During the month 666 people (male 269, female 397) were placed in employment, either permanent or of a casual nature, through the Kelowna local office," said Mr. Disney. The majority were in the agricultural industry—191 men in orchards for thinning and picking and 287 women in the packing-houses.

City Youngster Joins Reveen

A young Regatta "veteran" has joined the ranks of professionalism.

Douglas Forsythe, 19, is joining Reveen, Australian hypnotist and illusionist, as an apprentice stage assistant in December. Mr. Forsythe, 706 Leon Ave., was born in Kelowna. He has practiced magic for about four years.

He will appear at this year's Regatta, Aug. 10 to 13, during the night show entertainment at the Jubilee Bowl in the City Park.

He has also appeared at former Regattas, Vernon and Vancouver night clubs and the Okanagan Harvest Festival.

Labor Situation Invites Legislation Changes

Every day one picks up the newspaper and reads about another strike or workstoppage.

Currently in Montreal and Toronto railway employees have walked out because they were dissatisfied with the progress of contract negotiations. In British Columbia building contractors have locked out their employees because the carpenters in some plants went on strike. A billion and a half dollar construction program is grinding to a halt. Construction at Arrow Dam was halted because of a wildcat strike of some truckers. The four large Canadian railway unions have indicated they may strike on Labor Day, thus tying up the country's railways, if their demands ranging from 32 to 40 per cent are not met. Kelowna civic employees are talking about a strike vote. In Quebec a non-medical employees' strike against the hospitals has been just ended if not settled. In the United States five airlines, closed down by a strike of machinists, estimate their revenue losses so far at something better than $150 million. In Sudbury, white-collared workers have returned to their jobs after being out for nearly two weeks. A short time ago striking longshoremen paralyzed shipping on the St. Lawrence and gravely threatened the ability of this country to meet its large grain sale commitments. About the same time a strike of workers on the Seaway, which would have tied up this vital artery, was narrowly averted. The Vancouver civic outside workers have just recently returned to work.

Few people would deny the right of labor to strike. It is the workers' ultimate weapon in his contest with management to get better wages and working conditions. But the point is rapidly being reached, if indeed it has not been passed, when the general public must ask itself if the strike and the threat of a strike are not being misused by organized labor, particularly by those workers who are in a position to place the welfare of the entire nation in jeopardy by their actions.

In many cases the strike is not being reserved as the ultimate weapon by labor. It is being used irresponsibly and indiscriminately. Collective bargaining in many cases appears to have gone out the window. Unions make their demands and with them immediately present the threat of a strike. In some cases, as in the strike of the longshoremen and the threatened strike of Seaway workers, the government is so exercised about the harm that can be or is being done to the national economy that it uses its influence directly or indirectly, to persuade management to give the strikers all or most of what they demand.

Where will it end? The answer appears to be never. At least under the present circumstances. The railway workers ask for substantial wage increases and cite the increases given the longshoremen and Seaway workers as justification for their demands. If the railwaymen get what they want, another group will immediately use their increase to justify demands for a wage increase for them, and so the spiral will continue.

The public — and it is the public which in the end pays for all these increases through higher prices, higher taxes and higher living costs — must be wondering if there is not a better way of settling labor-management disputes. The methods used in Australia and in Sweden may not be wholly applicable here, but some aspects of them may be, and certainly this is a matter to which the federal and provincial labor departments should be giving some thought.

If the present situation continues, with the national economy being tied up every time a small but vital group of workers decides to withdraw its services, the only other solution seems to be an amendment to labor legislation making strikes illegal for those classes of workers whose stoppages affect the welfare of the nation or civil services. This would include civil servants, transportation workers on railways, ships, airlines, trucking lines, longshoremen, grain handlers and so on, as well as those employed in essential services. Undoubtedly there would be a great outcry from organized labor if restrictions of this nature were placed on a significant number of workers. But a continuation of the present situation will invite it.

Preventing Vandalism

Vandalism is not nearly as rare as it used to be. Nowadays one often reads of schools, churches, and parks being horribly damaged by a person or persons unknown. Only occasionally are the obviously sick culprits caught.

Even homes do not escape the current phase of vandalism. While robbery may be the principal motive, many robbers (especially the young ones) compound the crime by committing acts of unthinkable vandalism within the house. Eggs hurled against walls, flour mixed with water and tossed on floors, curtains ripped, phones torn out, upholstery slashed, and other psychotic acts too numerous to mention are committed.

Vandalism will always be with us

OTTAWA PEACE PIPE

Canadian Royal Probe Causes New Zealand Stir

AUCKLAND (CP)—The warning of a Canadian royal commission is being widely quoted in New Zealand following a drastic attempt in the budget to check losses of foreign exchange.

The single-sentence announcement in the budget sounded innocent enough. But its effect has been to stop all dealings on New Zealand stock exchange of stocks and shares of other countries.

But angry stockbrokers and investors insist that the measure will not save the millions of pounds in foreign exchange that the government expects. They quote the warning of the Canadian Royal Commission on Banking and Finance:

"The financial system will adapt, ways will be found to make funds available when the normal channels are stopped, and the authorities will then be endlessly building new dams where the new flows have appeared."

The particular leak the government was trying to stop was a method by which New Zealanders have been able to obtain foreign exchange legally by buying stocks of shares of other countries and then selling them abroad.

HOLDINGS ARE LOW

New Zealand holdings of foreign exchange are precariously low and most other methods of getting funds abroad are strictly controlled. New Zealanders are not permitted to buy dollars or sterling from banks for local currency. Even if they travel abroad on business or recreation, they are allowed only a limited ration of foreign funds. Tourists, for instance, are granted only £18 ($54) a day to cover all their expenses while abroad.

In consequence many seek to augment the funds at their disposal by buying foreign securities and then selling them abroad. Others have used the same method to obtain foreign funds for importing a car or other goods, for buying property abroad, or for sending funds to relatives.

All this has hitherto been legal. So keen has been the demand that New Zealanders holding Australian, British or other shares have been able to sell them to other New Zealanders for up to 10 per cent more than the prevailing stock exchange rates in the home country of the shares.

This is the practice which Finance Minister H. R. Lake abruptly banned in his budget. He said, "New Zealanders will no longer be able to sell overseas securities or currencies for New Zealand currency or other assets in New Zealand."

WIPE OUT TRADING

This ruling automatically wiped out all trading in overseas shares on all New Zealand stock exchanges. In fact, there has been large business in such shares for perfectly normal investment purposes.

New Zealanders buy large amounts of Australian shares, many of which are for companies that also trade in New Zealand. But dealing has ceased for the time being, at least until the exchanges take stock of the drastically changed situation. Overnight it has wiped out from 25 to 50 per cent of the business of some brokers.

Of course, much investment money now will be channelled to New Zealand shares instead, and business will pick up again. But the dealing in overseas shares for the purpose of obtaining foreign exchange has presumably been permanently lost to brokers.

Henceforth, New Zealanders who already hold overseas shares—in Australian, British, American or Canadian companies, for instance—will be able to sell them abroad if they wish. But they cannot sell them to fellow New Zealanders for New Zealand currency.

LOSE LEGAL MEANS

And New Zealanders who do not have any currency abroad will not have any legal means at all of buying overseas shares. The danger pointed out by brokers and other critics of the government move is that a black market will develop. They quote the Canadian report as typical of experience in other countries—that new ways will be found of obtaining overseas funds. Many expect that an illegal black market soon will be charging high premiums for overseas exchange.

The stock exchanges may in time work out a legal system of trading in overseas shares in the currency of their home countries among New Zealanders who hold supplies of the currency in question. But such trading never will be anything but a fraction of the volume of trading which has hitherto prevailed in overseas securities.

Personally Speaking

By VEN. D. S. CATCHPOLE, B.A., D.D.

YOUNG AT HEART

"I'd never marry an old man and I'll tell you the reason why—" went the words of a song I used to hear in 1927, but I won't tell you 'the reason why' because it was a trifle vulgar.

However, there is a thought here just the same. I'd like to be young at heart and, to put it in modern advertising terms, to "think young". I like to have some fun now and then, even to the point of poking mischievous comment at some people who are sensitive about their barbaric origins!

But who has not barbaric origins? Who are the English but part of that crowd of Jutes, Angles and Saxons which descended upon the British Isles centuries ago besides being part also of the Norman horde which flocked across the Channel with Duke William.

These, also, were Norsemen and they were young at heart and they produced over the years the Yeomen of England as well as their counterparts in less fortunate parts of those Islands!

But I don't live in England any more and am not at all sure that I want to live there. I like to live where I am living as I write this column. Maybe one day I'll live for a time in Victoria but I hope still to be young at heart and to think young even in that fair city of which some wit once said, speaking of Vancouver and the capital, "at least, in Vancouver, they bury their dead!"

Sometimes I meet people who express disapproval of the way I write in the paper. They seem to think it is undignified for an archdeacon to write so but I want to tell these critics that as they, perhaps, do exercises to keep themselves fit so that they can continue to live for a few more years, I do this writing so that I can remain young at heart.

There may be another reason. Let me see! Ah, yes, the money! Well, it doesn't hurt to earn a bit on the side. It enables me to live young as well as to think young.

Being young at heart is very valuable in my particular business, I can tell you. I have never forgotten the days when I was young in years. As the Psalmist put it, "My sins are ever before me," but so are other things. I remember how delightful life was in the carefree days between 1907 and 1914. I remember silly things and good things.

There are treasures which I am able to bring out of the store of memories and when I feel like blasting someone for this or that there comes a recollection from away back and instead of being vindictive I find that I am apt to be sympathetic.

But there is one and perhaps more than one course which is strengthened rather than weakened by being young at heart. I hate bullies. I hate underhandness. I despise cowards and I will not boot-lick authority. I think these are characteristics which were common to the yeomen of England and by the Lord Harry (an old name for that old villain, Henry VIII) I propose to retain these as part of my philosophy of life.

And being young at heart makes me have a certain sympathy for young men and women. They drive me to distraction. They fill me with sadness and despair. They disappoint me on every hand but when I see them I can't seem to be angry with them because one day, a long time ago, I was like they are now.

There is no danger of their knowing what I think because they never read and so are blissfully ignorant of my views. They are stupid in many ways and brash in others. Their conceit is boundless and yet sometimes they floor you with their humility.

Even one young religious fanatic who came to my poor parsonage ago said to me, "Well, I'm just a young punk and don't know much!" whereupon he captured me even though I did not become a member of his peculiar organization. I had not forgotten that I also may have been, at one time, stupid, brash and conceited.

Sorry to take down my hair like this but I hope it may show to my critics that there is a degree of humanity still left in the old fossil and I should be most happy if the old fossils, most than myself, would try a spot of rejuvenation and learn to 'think young' and to be young at heart.

It is a very happy experience.

Former Republican president Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for the presidency by the first of the United States' three Progressive parties 54 years ago today—in 1912—after a revolt within the Republican party in opposition to President William Howard Taft.

The Roosevelt candidacy split the Republican vote so badly that although it totalled more than 1,000,000 votes more than the Democrat vote, the Democrat

Woodrow Wilson carried all but eight states. Although Republican harmony was restored by 1916, Wilson remained in office through the First World War. Later Progressive parties nominated Robert La Follette for president in 1924 and Henry Wallace in 1948, both with equal lack of success.

1858—The first transatlantic telegraph cable was completed.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—Australian and Territorial troops made a last north of Pozieres on the Somme front; the Allied advance moved close to Martinpuich Heights and Courcellette; three German counter-attacks on the Somme line were repulsed.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—the Norwegian government—in exile—announced it would resume diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union; the Red Army repulsed Nazi attacks south of Kiev; large contingents of British and Indian troops reached Singapore.

CANADA'S STORY

France Provoked Lachine Massacre

By BOB BOWMAN

At this time of year hundreds of pleasure boats can be seen chugging on Lake St. Louis, or anchored along the shore. It is difficult to imagine the terrible massacre that took place there on August 5, 1689.

It was the Iroquois who raided Lachine, taking revenge for an incident that happened at Fort Frontenac (Kingston) two years before. Governor Denonville had been asked by Louis XIV to capture some Iroquois and send them to France as galley-slaves. The Recollet priests had a mission for Iroquois at the Bay of Quinte and Denonville invited them to take part in a reception at Fort Frontenac, bringing their wives and children.

When the Iroquois arrived, they were seized, tied to posts, flogged, insects put on their skins, while Hurons forced their fingers into hot pipes of tobacco. Then they were sent to France as galley-slaves, and most of them died.

On the night of August 4, 1689, a violent summer storm with hail swept across Lake St. Louis. As the householders closed their windows they heard the screaming war cry of the Iroquois rising over the noise of the thunder and hail. In a few minutes swarms of naked Iroquois came running down the lanes, their faces smeared with war paint, and armed to the teeth. There were 1,500 of them and they had taken advantage of the storm to paddle across Lake St. Louis unseen.

The residents of Lachine who died in the first few minutes were fortunate. Men and women were cut down by tomahawks and the brains of little children were dashed out against door frames and bedposts. More than 100 prisoners were taken to Iroquois villages to be tortured and burned.

While all this was going on at Lachine, Denonville, was guest of honor at a reception in Montreal. Soldiers were stationed about three miles from Lachine, but they did not take any action because their commanding officer, Subercase, was at the reception.

When the runner brought the news of the massacre, Subercase hurried to Lachine, and cursed his soldiers for not having gone into action without him. Then Denonville ordered Subercase to hold his troops back in case they were needed to defend Montreal. The Iroquois kept on the rampage, attacking more communities, taking prisoners, and even paddling in front of the forts shouting "Ononio" in derision.

Jerome and Crothers Favorites for Medals

Jerome Anxious To Erase Memory Of Past Performances

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—The semi-finals and final will be run off Saturday. The Games, with a total of 1,037 athletes from 34 countries, officially opened Thursday night and will continue until Aug. 13. There are nine sports—track and field, swimming, boxing, weightlifting, wrestling, badminton, fencing, cycling and shooting.

Gold medals were to be awarded today in such events as the women's 400 freestyle relay swim, the men's 880-yard freestyle relay, men's foil fencing and the bantamweight and featherweight weightlifting classes.

PRINCE OPENS GAMES

After more than four years of planning and an expenditure of $1,000,000, not including the cost of the venues where the nine sports are being held, the Games were opened by Prince Philip before a roaring crowd of 33,000 in National Stadium Thursday night.

Athletes showed off splashy dress uniforms and sticking out were the Canadians, particularly the women athletes, who sparkled in their red blazers, white pleated skirts and dinky straw hats.

For a brief spell, the Games had a chaotic start with hundreds of angry athletes almost missing the colorful ceremony. The city's worst-ever traffic jam made what should have been a 15-minute journey by bus for the ceremony a nightmare for the athletes. Many of them got out and walked.

His latest record clocking was 9.1 seconds last July 15 in the Edmonton trials for the Games, equalling the world 100-yard mark held by Bob Hayes of the United States.

The 100-yard dash carries a good deal of glitter because it has drawn a field of the world's top sprinters besides Jerome.

Marichal And Henry Bombed By Booming Bat Of Swoboda

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Swoboda, unlike lightning, has struck twice in the same place, and Bill Henry has been left smoking.

Just two weeks ago, Swoboda flashed off the New York Mets bench and joined fireman Henry by slugging the veteran reliever for a ninth inning homer that gave the Mets a 3-2 victory over San Francisco Giants.

Thursday, the 22-year-old right-handed hitter reduced lefty Henry to ashes, again coming off the bench in the ninth with a three-run clout that carried the Mets to an 8-6 triumph.

The earlier home run kept the Giants out of a virtual tie for first place in the National League. This dropped them into second place, two percent

156,000 REGISTERED IN CANADA

Softball Keeps On Growing

CALGARY (CP)—Softball's critics sneer that anyone can play it. And in Canada estimates of the number who do range from at least 400,000 to perhaps more than 800,000.

The sport has grown by leaps and bounds since the 12-inch ball caught the public eye in Ontario in the 1920s, and its national body says it has been out-selling baseball ever since.

The Canadian Amateur Softball Association has close to 150,000 players registered for competition and association official George Lehnert estimates the actual playing total is "five times that or more."

The evidence—Edmonton diamonds are used in shifts, more than 90,000 men, women and children are registered in Ontario, three teams want to pay their own way to a tournament in Mexico.

The second largest cities in Canada are used in shifts, more than 90,000 men, women and children are registered in Ontario, three teams want to pay their own way to a tournament in Mexico.

Empire-U.S. Meet Near Reality

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—An annual track and field contest between the Commonwealth and the United States is a step nearer reality.

A meeting of 17 Commonwealth countries here Thursday accepted in principle an invitation from the American Amateur Athletic Union to provide a team for a yearly match.

Cecil Dale, England's team manager who presided at the meeting, said: "I understand the Americans are unlikely to arrange further matches with the Soviet Union and they think the British Commonwealth would be a tremendous attraction instead."

The Soviet Union last month cancelled a scheduled track and field match in Los Angeles with the United States as a protest over American policy in Vietnam.

American League Batters Buffaloes By Rookie-Jim Nash

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookie pitcher Jim Nash used to be able to get into a ball game only when there was a fight on the field and he would sneak out to throw a few punches.

But now there is a growing number of American League batters who wouldn't mind committing a little mayhem on the 21-year-old Georgian. He beat Washington Senators 4-3 Thursday for his fifth victory, tossed without a loss since joining Kansas City Athletics a month ago.

Since coming up from Mobile of the Southern League in July, Nash has compiled a 2.65 earned-run average and struck out 43 men besides winning five of the seven games he's been in.

Grudge Match Shaping Between Argos-TiCats

TORONTO (CP)—The grudge match that has made Hamilton Tiger-Cats the top cats in the Eastern Football Conference, will once again be in their favor when the Grey Cup champions go against Toronto Argonauts tonight.

It's no secret that the Ticats always play their best when they have a loss to avenge and they haven't forgotten the 41-27 loss to Toronto in an exhibition game a few weeks ago.

The Ticats' main target in the first regular game of the season for both clubs will be rookie quarterback Wall Gable, 22, whose throwing shredded the Hamilton defence in the exhibition encounter.

"We'll put on a pretty good rush," Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio said Thursday.

"But I don't think that's the automatic key to winning in Toronto. I watched movies of Gable's game against British Columbia Lions last week. They rushed him plenty and it didn't disturb him at all."

Toronto coach Bob Shaw doesn't think Hamilton's awesome record over the last decade will intimidate his rejuvenated squad.

WANT TO PLAY

"This year I think we have some boys who really want to play," he said.

In addition to Gable, more than half of Toronto's 32-man roster—17—did not play with the EFC's last-place finishers last season.

Trail Sidelined From BRL Tourney

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Oregon and Alaska remained undefeated while Washington and Trail were eliminated at the Pacific Northwest regional Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament here Thursday.

Oregon and Alaska were to tangle in a game today, while Wyoming met Idaho and New Westminster was to play Montana.

Montana, which had lost to the Alaskans 6-5 on opening day, scored four runs in the sixth to open the barrage against Trail. All runs were charged to Merv Kennedy, who relieved starter Norm Lamour in the third.

Dale Matheson led the winners with three RBIs. Mike Houtonen got two.

$915,000 For Signing Name

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Quarterback John Brodie may have become the highest paid athlete in sports history by coming to terms with San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

In a copyright story Thursday, The Tribune said Brodie got a total of $915,000 to sign his contract. The story broke it down as $250,000 a year for the next three years, $90,000 for 1969 and $75,000 in legal fees with payment of the entire sum spread over 10 years for income-tax purposes.

Houston Oilers of the American Football League, the newspaper said, would split the cost with the 49ers except for the $90,000 for 1969. Brodie, 31, got an estimated $35,000 last year in the best of the 10 seasons he's played for San Francisco.

Anniversary Collection Ranges From Kooky Modern To Romantic

PARIS (Reuters) — Yves St. Laurent's new fashion collection shown today was as full of surprises as Pandora's box. It ranged from the kooky modern art designs inspired by Salvador Dali to the romantic costume clothes of the 19th century.

Yves called this his anniversary collection as it is the 10th one since he founded his own house after leaving Christian Dior.

The three dominant themes in the new collection were the art dresses, the military trend in daywear which replaced last season's nautical fashions and the tender heroines of 19th-century literature that set the trend in formal fashion.

DRESSED WORE FACES The kookiest clothes were the wool jersey sheath and chemises with Dali - inspired appliques faced on to the entire front of the dress.

Little Old Ladies Influence Banning Of Books CHICAGO (AP)—Little old ladies wearing flower - pot hats play an important role in obtaining convictions in obscene book cases, a legal expert, tongue in cheek says.

Place such observers prominently in the courtroom, James R. Thompson, assistant professor of law at Northern University, told a law seminar Wednesday then slam the dirty book down on the floor.

"No jury will come back and face those flower - pot ladies and say a book is not obscene," Thompson said.

He continued with his formula: "Read the book aloud to the jury. If you are young, blush. The jury will feel sorry for you having to read those awful passages out loud."

Librarians make good witnesses, Thompson said, but he advised against using clergymen or policemen.

"They are the worst," he said. "They will have such an emotional bias against obscenity that something will slip in cross-examination and the defence will plead for a mistrial."

Thompson's tongue-in - cheek formula was presented during a discussion of obscenity laws in which he said that such laws should be amended to deal only with the sale or distribution of obscene material to children.

"The state has better things to do than to censor the reading habits of adults," he said.

GOOD TIME TO QUIT CLIFTONVILLE, England (CP)—Bingo addict Edna Conroy, 60, decided to have one final fling before swearing off the game she had played six nights a week for five years, with slight success. On the night which she vowed would be her last in the local bingo hall, she won the jackpot prize of £2,500.

A woman's face seen in profile divided a dress into two vertical sections from one shoulder to the neckline. The profile was complete with a black-and-white eye and red lips.

He repeated the same idea on a small - length evening gown with a life-sized profile of a body slanted from shoulder to neckline with the bosom and hips corresponding to the model's own proportions.

Another evening dress had a giant-size pair of red lips which were padded out in relief effects which covered the bosom like a brassiere.

St. Laurent always features an unorthodox style bridal gown but the latest bride is literally "all lit up" before the wedding. She wore a full tent-shaped white velvet gown with green belt hem and leaves trailing down the front beneath a giant porcelain Easter lily which flashes on and off like a neon sign.

The model carried the flower in her arms like a traditional bouquet and operated the battery which flashes the lights.

NOW IT'S WAVES The cubist style of Mondrian was replaced by wavy undulating sections of contrasting colors which were slanted obliquely across the body.

Wool jersey shifts were divided into three or four diagonal sections, outlined in these slanting wavy lines. St. Laurent's skirts were among the shortest in Paris. They were three and four inches above the knee with coats which also cleared the tops of the knee.

Models were fancy-patterned stockings in dark-toned fishnet or lace designs and gold or silver lame hosiery with floral fashions.

SALLY'S SALLIES "Survey the situation! Before I'm through with him, he'll wish he WAS Surveyor II!"

Librarians make good witnesses, Thompson said, but he advised against using clergymen or policemen. "They are the worst," he said. "They will have such an emotional bias against obscenity that something will slip in cross-examination and the defence will plead for a mistrial."

Thompson's tongue-in - cheek formula was presented during a discussion of obscenity laws in which he said that such laws should be amended to deal only with the sale or distribution of obscene material to children.

"The state has better things to do than to censor the reading habits of adults," he said.

GOOD TIME TO QUIT CLIFTONVILLE, England (CP)—Bingo addict Edna Conroy, 60, decided to have one final fling before swearing off the game she had played six nights a week for five years, with slight success. On the night which she vowed would be her last in the local bingo hall, she won the jackpot prize of £2,500.

ANN LANDERS

Store Clerks Are Not The Only Rude People

Dear Ann Landers: Why did you have to single out store clerks for leaving customers to take phone calls? We aren't the only ones who are guilty.

Yesterday it happened to me three times. I went to my dentist in the morning and while he was working on my teeth he cradled the phone between his shoulder and his ear and continued to drill while he carried on a long-winded conversation with his wife.

During lunch hour I went to my lawyer's office to sign papers. While I was there he took a phone call and motioned for me to sign on the bottom line. He never even said good-bye. He waved.

At 3 p.m. my psychiatrist did me in the same way. He used up 20 of my 45 minutes talking to another patient. Twice he said, "You must sublimate." I asked "Are you speaking to me?" He said, "No, I'm on the phone."

So please, Ann, don't give us sales people a black eye for the rude behavior that is universal.

DOUBLE DUTY Dear Ann: I don't single out sales people. The complaint came from a reader. I agreed, however, that it was outrageous for a clerk to leave a customer standing while he talked on the phone.

And now I'll agree with you. Your dentist was rude and your lawyer was rude and your psychiatrist was rude. I could say more on this subject, Dearie, but my phone is ringing. So sublimate.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell your readers what R.S.V.P. means? I gave a bridal shower this afternoon and only one third of the people I invited showed up. It was a humiliating experience.

I borrowed dishes, rearranged my living room furniture and baked three times as much dessert as was needed.

Tell the slabs in your reading audience that R.S.V.P. means the hostess is expecting them unless they call to say they will not attend.—LEFTOVERS

Dear Leftovers: I'm afraid you don't know what R.S.V.P. means, so please listen. R.S.V.P. is French, for, "Answer, if you please!" This means the person should respond with either an acceptance or refusal. The hostess should not assume (nor should she prepare for) guests who do not respond. The safest bet is to call the clunks who don't answer and ask if they received the invitation. A nuisance, yes, but better than being stuck with 48 cream puffs and 24 eclairs.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a good provider, a hard worker and a fairly intelligent person, but he will argue with anybody about anything.

Sunday our children had some guests over and my husband picked an argument with them over sports. He went into a rage and made such a fool of himself that I really admired those teen-agers for having been so respectful.

Is this a medical problem or what? What causes a grown man to behave this way?

TROUBLED WIFE Dear Ann: Your husband feels so inadequate that he must pick fights and pop off to make certain someone will pay attention to him.

If something could be done to bolster his ego he would behave in a more civilized manner.

EXPECTED A GIRL HURSTPIER POINT, England (CP) — A competition to find "the most attractive teenager with dog" at a Sussex dog show was won by the only entrant—a boy, Chris Counter, 18, with his Afghan hound, was given the first prize: a green linen dress.

Pre-Wedding Shower Honors July Bride

Miss Diana Naito and Miss Helen Kirk were co-hostesses on July 27 at a surprise shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Snowsell in honor of their daughter Susan, whose marriage to Percy Wolfe took place on July 30.

The many lovely gifts were presented to the bride-elect in a basket drawn by a toy truck labelled O.K. Building Movers with reference to the groom's occupation. Guests at the party were Susan's school friends and delicious refreshments were served.

Truce Commission Strated By U.S. In Cambodia - Tass

SAIGON (AP) — Communist dispatches said Wednesday members of the International Control Commission were among those strafed by U.S. and South Vietnamese planes in alleged attacks on a Cambodian frontier village.

The ICC—composed of Canada, India and Poland—was reported investigating charges of earlier strikes at the village of Anlong Trach when one raid took place Tuesday, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The ICC was formed in 1954 to supervise the truce established by the Geneva conference that year.

U.S. officials in Saigon refused any comment on the reports. The ICC for Viet Nam said any protests would be filed with the ICC representatives for Cambodia.

The Tass report from Phnom Penh, Cambodia, said members of the ICC, accompanied by military attaches of Britain, France and Indonesia and a group of journalists, were strafed for 30 minutes by "two fighters with identification marks of the United States Air Force."

Ships For Arctic Sail With Supplies

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 23 ships have left or are about to leave Atlantic and St. Lawrence River ports with supplies for some 40 defence posts, weather stations and settlements in the Arctic. The transport department said Wednesday the ships include 15 Canadian Coast Guard vessels and eight chartered commercial cargo carriers.

Fewer People Claim Unemployment Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—Claimants for unemployment insurance numbered 217,600 on May 31, 12,000 fewer than a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Benefit payments were $30,000,000 in May, almost $8,000,000 lower than in April.

BIDDING QUIZ
You have the following hand, both sides vulnerable:

Spades—KQ1083; Hearts—KQ85; Diamonds—K4; Clubs—A2.

1. Your partner bids One Diamond, to which you respond Two Spades. Partner bids Three Diamonds and you respond Three Hearts. Partner then bids Four Diamonds. What would you bid now?

2. Your right-hand opponent bids One Diamond, which you double. Partner responds One Heart. What would you bid now?

3. After two passes your right-hand opponent bids One Club, which you double. Partner responds Two Hearts, which the opener passes. What would you bid now?

4. You open One Spade, to which partner responds Two Notrump. When you bid three Hearts, partner responds Three Notrump. What would you bid now?

1. Four Notrump. It sounds very much as though partner has only a one-trick mind—he likes diamonds. He probably has seven to the A-Q-J or some similar holding, and the chief question to be resolved is how many aces he has.

It is therefore best to bid four notrump, in view of the immediate jump shift, thus showing interest in a slam, four notrump must be regarded as a Blackwood call for aces even though no suit has yet been agreed upon as trump. If partner shows three aces by responding five spades, you bid seven diamonds (or seven notrump). If he shows two aces by responding five hearts, you bid six diamonds. If he shows one ace by responding five diamonds, you pass.

2. Three hearts. You don't have quite the values for a jump to four, and you have too much strength for a mere raise to two hearts. Three is just about right.

3. Three clubs. When this hand appeared in the Bridge World magazine, a panel of experts voted to respond this way: 22 for three clubs; 18 for four hearts; five for notrump; two for two spades.

Obviously, those who favored three clubs (a cuebid) or four notrump were more slam-minded than those who favored four hearts, which was only a faint slam try. It does seem that if partner has two aces a slam looks very promising, and for that reason this writer favored three clubs or four notrump.

4. Four notrump. Twelve tricks may be there if partner has the right hand, even though the combined high-card point count cannot possibly come to 33 points. (The jump to two notrump shows 13 to 15 points.)

Four notrump is merely invitational in this sequence and partner is free to pass. It is a raise in notrump and has nothing to do with Blackwood.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Stellar influences continue to be friendly toward job and/or business matters. This day will be an excellent period in which to gain the favor of superiors; also, to make new contacts who could be invaluable in helping you to further worthwhile aims. Avoid prevailing tendencies toward over-aggressiveness, however.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates some challenging business and/or job situations during the next few months. Certain changes in work matters—especially if you are engaged in scientific pursuits of any kind—can, with the Leo's foresight and practicality, be turned to your advantage and, by the end of 1966, you should find yourself, not only in far better position than you may be in at the moment, but ready to move forward at a more progressive pace early in 1967. For all born under this sign, however, best periods for advancement on occupational front will occur during the latter half of this month, during the last week in September, the last two in October (Unusually auspicious).

the end of December, next February and May.

There's little indication that the next five months will bring much change in your financial status, but do not be discouraged. Stars say that this will be a period for planning and working out programs for expansion along these lines. Programs to cover at least two years. September and October will be the best months for launching such programs and, if cleverly conceived and handled, should bring fine results during the first three months of 1967, to be followed by another good three-month cycle beginning with June 1st. It will be important, however, that you avoid extravagance and speculation and make no financial commitments—especially during September, November and December.

Personal matters will be governed by generally good influences during the year ahead, with romance favored during the latter half of December, in February, May and June; travel during the last two weeks in October, in late December, next January, April and June. A child born on this day will be independent, progressive in his thinking, and endowed with marked qualities of leadership.

TRY AND STOP ME By Bennett Cerf

A DOWAGER, all set to leave for her summer place, had the man—a very short and weary man—call for her bags. They were heavy. He huffed and struggled with them for half an hour before he got them all stashed in the elevator. Just before the car hit bottom, the woman suddenly exclaimed: "I can't wear this dress with the blue Bentley!" And as the little man knew she would, she added: "That means I'll have to change all this luggage too."

Bob Hope recalls that after his agent had seen his first screen test he sighed, "Anything you do after this, Bob, will be a comeback." Hope also tells of a club of men over 50 who just voted to lower the age requirements to 75. They think it's time to "bring in some new blood."

From the voluminous mail received by the Internal Revenue Service, Bill Adler rescued these two prizes:

1. "Please keep I.R.I. from making any more tax cuts. I couldn't afford this one."

2. "My wife went to pay our income tax two weeks ago last year and I haven't seen her since. Did she pay the tax? If not, please send her a new form to fill out."

Vernon Jaycees Swinging To Kal Lake Swim Action

The stage is being set to make the 1966 Kalamalka Lake Committee, greatly appreciates the assistance of the Retail Merchants Association in sponsoring the biggest summer attraction in Vernon since the Vernon Days. The modified shopping mall, with less than three weeks left before Western Canada's only marathon swim event, all comers have swung into high gear to make this event a classic. The proceeds will be used entirely for the Kal Lake Swim, as more than $1,000 must be raised for prize money. Arrangements are being made for a giant street dance on the evening of Aug. 20. There will be no admission fees, but all participants are urged to purchase a Kal Lake marathon swim booster ticket. Residents and merchants are reminded that the sale of booster tickets will be the only means of financing the Kal Lake Swim. There will not be a canvass for funds.

Swimming Finals Held In Westbank

WESTBANK — Red Cross swimming finals and awards will be made Saturday afternoon at Westbank Aquatic Park, when judges will arrive at 2 p.m. Miss Esther Gorman and Miss Connie Currie have been instructors this summer for these ever-popular classes, and following Saturday's finals a picnic supper will be enjoyed as usual, with hot dogs, pop and so on available. An aquatic display also is being planned, by beach mothers, recreation Commission members and parents generally.

LONG CAREER CLOSES WINNIPEG (CP)—The oldest Crown prosecutor with one of the longest records of service in the Commonwealth, Edgar James Thomas, retired recently at 85. Mr. Thomas served 42 years in magistrate's court in suburban St. Boniface.

SOUTH END START

The committee responsible for the swim route, chaired by Ron Ross, is experiencing some difficulty in locating an ideal starting point, as last year's facilities are not available.

They are certain, however, that suitable arrangements can be made well in advance of the swim date. The swim will definitely start at the south end of Kalamalka Lake, cross the lake to the east side, recross the lake to the Amery Ranch Point, over to Rattlesnake Point, then proceed to a point just below the lookout on Highway 97, and straight in to Kal Lake beach. It is hoped that this route will permit the maximum number of spectators to follow the race. The route will be well marked, and it should not be difficult to follow the swimmers.

Arrangements have been made to have a cadet band from the Vernon cadet camp provide some of the entertainment at the finish line. Other suitable entertainment will be provided so that the whole family can enjoy the day.

The contestants will be invited to a barbecue after the swim. The Jaycees are interested in hearing from all possible contestants as soon as possible. "If you are interested, please contact Peter Hankey by writing Box 1085 in Vernon. Entry forms and other information will be sent to you immediately," said Emil W. Meister, publicity chairman of the Jaycee Kal Lake Swim Committee.

Judy Garland Faces Suit By Ex-husband

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress-singer Judy Garland was sued for separate maintenance Wednesday by actor Mark Herron, who charged he suffered mental and physical pain and was subjected to extreme cruelty. Herron, friends said, decided to file for separate maintenance instead of divorce on the chance a reconciliation is possible. The couple married in Las Vegas, Nev., last November and separated last April 15.

Nixon And Pope Have Private Talk

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (Reuters)—A former U.S. vice-president, Richard Nixon, was received in private audience by Pope Paul Monday at his summer residence in the Alban Hills here.

Sugar Sweet As An Actor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The guy's good," a supporting actor muttered admiringly from the sidelines.

Star Ben Gazzara: "That was beautiful, Ray." Director Leo Penn: "Beautiful, Sugar."

And thus Sugar Ray Robinson, former welterweight champion, five times middleweight king, completed a scene in his new career—acting. He guest-stars as a fighter in a segment of television's Run For Your Life. In the low-key sequence he lies in a hospital bed, comatose after a ring beating, mumbling dialogue with Gazzara.

Yes, said Sugar, donning a tan bathrobe during a break, he has retired for good from boxing. He made the decision after losing a 10-round decision to Joey Archer last December.

HAM AT HEART

"I love this, love performing," he said. "I'm a ham at heart. I've been in front of cameras for years, in the ring! And on the air in interviews after fights."

"I see myself on the screen in the rushes, and the director and everybody are so happy, it really gives me a big lift."

Robinson, virtually unmarked from his ring career, is 45.

Next he flies to Spain for a feature, Egghead On Hill 56, then returns here for a western, Chuka, written by star Rod Taylor.

He has had other offers, and none of the roles are as fighters.

Except for a Car 54, Where Are You? this is Robinson's first acting—and he never has had a drama lesson.

Battle For 'Met Finally Lost

NEW YORK (AP)—The non-profit corporation created to save the old Metropolitan Opera House said "with a heavy heart" Wednesday that barring unexpected help, the battle was lost.

The Old Met Opera House Corp., created by special Albany legislation, issued a statement saying it was still convinced the old building at 39th Street and Broadway should be saved.

The board said it was returning the money collected in hopes of saving the building.

Writer Eric Nicoll Calm About New York Venture

By ALLEN HUNTER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Of all the people working and praying for the success of Like Father, Like Fun on Broadway, it's the playwright himself, Eric Nicoll, who is the least anxious.

"You give your best, but you don't assume it is going to be successful," he said in an interview. "You can't afford to get bound up in any one work. If it fails, it sears you."

The play, the second by 46-year-old Nicoll, a syndicated columnist and Canada's top prize-winning humorist, was the sensation of the season at the Vancouver Playhouse, where artistic director Malcolm Black presented it with a local cast.

It tells the story of a lumber tycoon's efforts to prod his teen-age son out of premature conformity by getting him a mistress. But it all turns out quite differently, as a farce ought to.

The combination of the play's success on the West Coast and Nicoll's reputation induced Ed Mirvish, discount store king and proprietor of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, to bring it to his theatre for a summer fortnight and then finance its opening in New York.

"If it succeeds, it will be the first Canadian written or produced show to do so," wrote the Toronto Star's Nathan Cohen, in a gloomy survey of a dozen earlier Canadian hits which bombed on Broadway.

Like Father, Like Fun is booked to open Sept. 8 at the Cort Theatre, New York.

CUSTOMERS RALLIED

The play drew lukewarm reviews from the Toronto critics. Herbert Whittaker of The Globe and Mail found it had "a lot of promise, in a disarmingly modest way," while Cohen of the Star loathed it — "the worst show . . . in the Royal Alexandra since the end of the Second World War." Ron Evans of The Telegram liked the first half but not the second.

"Had this play started out from, say, Dallas, it's conceivable that it might still be on its way to New York," Evans amplified. "But you can be certain there'd be a darn good play doctor . . . working like fury on that failing second act."

Nevertheless the Toronto public turned up in thousands. Although the planned run was only two weeks, Mirvish decided to sell tickets as long as anyone would buy them and arranged to continue Like Father, Like Fun simultaneously with Chicago's Second City revue, which he had already booked for Aug. 4-20.

Nicoll had written only one play before, a pageant, but has 12 books behind him and has won three Leacock medals for humor, the maximum allowable. He writes three columns a week—keeping two months ahead, for safety—for The Province, Vancouver's morning newspaper.

LIVES SETTLED LIFE

Eric Nicoll is a shy and unobtrusive man who would accept only $1 as down payment for his play in Vancouver. He writes his column for the Province—with a pen, typing it out later for the printer—at home in a modest one-storey house near the University of British Columbia's land grant.

"I'm only a part-time gardener," he says, "—36 hours a week."

He has worked at The Province for 15 years. Before that he took BA and MA degrees at U.B.C., separated by wartime RCAF service—"ground crew, no decorations"—and wrote scripts in London for Bernie Braden's radio show.

Since then, Nicoll's historical parodies and columns have gone far. His tribute to President Kennedy was read in the U.S. Congress after the assassination.

Nicoll suppresses the urge to drive a sports car "because a family man drives a family car" and waited until he was 35 before marrying Muri Heselt and fathering three children.

Describing himself as a theoretical anarchist and a practical small-l liberal, he seems thoroughly conservative in private life. He has no urge to move to the United States or overseas again, nor even to leave Vancouver.

He likes his homeland's political stability and finds his home town "the most pleasant place in Canada."

Mariposa Festival To Rest At Innis Lake For A While

TORONTO (CP)—It is three years since the Mariposa Folk Festival was "booted out," as the promoters put it, of Orillia, the model for Stephen Leacock's imaginary little Ontario town.

Rowdiness and the fear of rowdiness forced it to move again the following year. But now it has come to rest at Innis Lake, a 100-acre privately-owned resort 40 miles northwest of Toronto.

Tighter control, including 50 private security guards as well as provincial police, has kept away young idlers just looking for a riot or an orgy, and the summer and winter weekends now are what was originally planned—festivals of folk music.

There are two indications of the success of the enterprise and its public and artistic respectability. One is that it won the exclusive right to the name of Mariposa, over Orillia's protests, and the other is that top-ranking musicians of the folk world, such as Pete Seeger and Buffy Sainte-Marie, forgo night-club engagements to sing at Mariposa concerts for union minimum rates.

This summer's festival is Aug. 5 to 7 at the Innis Lake estate and the headliners include Pete Seeger, Ian Tyson and Gordon Lightfoot. The last two are Canadians with an international reputation in folk music.

There are concerts with about eight acts or individuals on each bill on each of the three days, and nine study workshops on Sunday.

The topics of these include film-making, various instruments and playing methods, Indian crafts and dances, blues and gospel singing, and Ontario songs. This last item is supervised by Edith Fowke, the CBC's folk-song expert.

There is an extra concert for children among the 15,000 customers expected to attend. A weekend ticket, including camping permit, costs $12.50 and individual concert tickets are from $2.50 to $3.75.

Camping permits go only to "qualified" people, to preclude trouble with the police.

The whole organization now is incorporated under Ontario law as a non-profit corporation "to promote and encourage the arts in Canada, especially the development of folk music."

Sax Player Dies

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Boyd A. Raeburn, 52, leader of one of the top progressive jazz bands in the U.S. at the end of the Second World War, died Tuesday. Raeburn, out of the music business about 10 years, was injured in an auto accident three years ago and had never completely recovered. Raeburn played the saxophone.

CHANGE DEATH RULING

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A preliminary autopsy has failed to determine cause of the death of comedian Lennie Bruce, the Los Angeles County coroner's office said Thursday. Bruce, 40, was found dead in his Hollywood apartment Wednesday. The coroner's office said earlier that an overdose of narcotics was the probable cause of death.

A Father Of Jazz Dies At Age 41

NEW YORK (AP)—Pianist Bud Powell, 41, who with Charlie (Bird) Parker and Dizzy Gillespie brought jazz out of the swing era and into bebop, died Monday night.

Death came at Kings County Hospital, a city institution in Brooklyn. Powell had suffered several years from a combination of malnutrition, alcoholism and tuberculosis.

Powell's fluid style, in which notes cascaded from his keyboard as if blown through a horn, influenced a generation of jazzmen. He was revered as an innovator and composer.

But his life was a story of mental breakdowns compounded by physical illness that diminished his talents, leaving at his death only a laboring, unsure echo of his former brilliance.

Powell, whose first name was Earl, was born in New York in 1924 to a musical family. He played as a young musician with several jazz groups, eventually graduating to sessions at Minton's Playhouse in Harlem, where he met saxophonist Parker and trumpeter Gillespie.

Their classic recordings crystallized the emergence of modern jazz from swing.

Beatle's Quote Stirs Uproar

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A magazine article quoting John Lennon of the Beatles as saying his group is more popular than Jesus has ignited a "ban the Beatles records" campaign by Birmingham radio station WAQY.

Station Manager Tommy Charles said Tuesday the Beatles were his No. 1 attraction before he read the article in Datebook.

The article quotes Maureen Cleave of the London Evening Standard as quoting Lennon as saying:

"Christianity will go. It will shrink and vanish. I needn't argue about that; I'm right and I will be proved right. We're (the Beatles) more popular than Jesus now; I don't know which will go first—rock 'n' roll or Christianity. Jesus was all right, but his disciples were thick and ordinary. It's them twisting it ruins it for me."

Commenting on Lennon's statement, Charles said: "We just felt it was so absurd and sacrilegious that something ought to be done to show them they cannot get away with this sort of thing."

MOST SUPPORT IT

The Birmingham disc jockey said more than 99 per cent of the calls regarding this campaign support it.

"I'm most unbelievably the teen-agers, almost as soon as they were sure the quotes were true, became really angry, some to the point of tears," Charles said. "All sorts of record and book stores have called saying they are taking their Beatle records and books off the market."

WAQY is broadcasting spot announcements every hour telling the audience to turn in their Beatle records, pictures, magazines and souvenirs to designated pickup spots.

"We'll have a giant Beatle bonfire the night they are closest to Birmingham on their next American tour, probably when they are in Memphis later this month," Charles said.

FROM PLAY TO TV

Jack Albertson, after touring for two years in the play The Subject Was Roses, returned to Hollywood for an episode of the new fall TV comedy series Run, Buddy, Run.

MOVIE highlights

Julie Andrews is starred in two films coming to Kelowna next week.

Walt Disney's Mary Poppins is coming to the Paramount Theatre Aug. 8 to 13 inclusive at 7 and 9:20 p.m. and each afternoon at 2 p.m.

At the Kelowna Drive-in Theatre The Americanization of Emily will be shown Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 6, 8, 9 at dusk. It is a high-powered drama, set in London during the Second World War prior to D-Day.

An Elvis Presley film Girl Happy will be seen Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Aug. 10 to 12.

MARY POPPINS

Walt Disney's latest feature film will appeal to audiences of all ages. It combines live-action photography, animation and special effects that must be seen to be believed. The story, based on Mrs. P. L. Travers' famous books of the same name, is enchanting and absorbing. The photography and color are striking, the music and songs—by Disney composers Robert and Richard Sherman—are memorable. Performances are outstanding. Julie Andrews of "My Fair Lady" stage and record fame plays the title role, that of an English nanny, who, escorted by a few fluffy clouds, arrives from nowhere to save two lovable children (Karen Dotrice and Matthew Garber) from yet another grouchy nursemaid. Mary Poppins has extraordinary powers, as has her friend Bert, a happy-go-lucky jack-of-all-trades who becomes involved with Mary and the children in their new life of fairy-like adventures—magically done by Disney's special effects artists. Bert is played by Dick Van Dyke, a superb dancer, singer and comedian.

The Americanization of Emily might be described as a savage comedy about the lunacy of war. It is also the story of a reluctant hero and a girl who falls for heroes—reluctantly.

In navy parlance, a "dog robber" is the guy who gets the best of everything for the top brass, from tempting steaks to tempting redheads. That's the role played by James Garner, as hard-boiled, aggressive and cynical American Lt. Commander Charlie Madison, stationed in London prior to the Normandy invasion.

Charlie, early disillusioned with wartime propaganda and inter-service rivalry and dedicated to the type of combat duty that involves no shooting, is doing all right catering to the needs of Admiral William Jessup (Melvyn Douglas) until two things happen. He falls in love with Emily Barham (Julie Andrews), an English motor pool driver who has lost husband, father and brother in the war and has nothing but contempt for Charlie's job and philosophy. And his easy life of plenty of luxuries and lovely ladies appears jeopardized when Admiral Jessup is convinced that the Navy is being out-shadowed by the Army in publicity anent the preparations underway for D-Day.

The Admiral orders Charlie and his fellow lieutenant "Bus" Cummings (James Coburn) to make a special film of the landing in Normandy, in which they will head a group of photographers who will be right on the heels of the Navy demolition units. "Bus," who is of the stuff that war heroes are made of, is thrilled with the dangerous assignment. Not so Charlie, who immediately maneuvers an "out."

However, his scheme fouls up and a dumbfounded Charlie finds himself right at the forefront of the Normandy invasion inferno. And, in a stroke of purest irony, he ends up mistakenly as the hero of heroes and the first man to "land" on a battle-torn Omaha Beach. Equally ironic is the reaction of Emily, who by now has become Americanized in her thinking and is horrified at the thought of Charlie confessing to the hoax about his heroism. In the end, it all works out happily for everybody and with a gusto of laughs for the audience.

Girl Happy is a fast-moving story which has Elvis hired by Chicago night club owner Harold Stone to keep an eye on his daughter, Miss Fabares, while she is on the Fort Lauderdale vacation. The job involves him in one hilarious complication after another, but keep an eye on Shelley he does, even if it means raising the roof in a rambunctious night club riot; interrupting a shipboard rendezvous between Miss Fabares and her amorous admirer Fabrizio Mioni by removing the cruiser from the water, trundling it through the streets of the resort town and depositing it at the lady's doorstep (this has to be seen to be believed!); or, in the frenzied climax, digging a tunnel underneath the city jail in order to rescue Miss Fabares after she has been hauled in for disorderly conduct.

Actors Demand For More Cash From Films Grows World-Wide

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The demand by actors for a greater share of the profits from their labors now has assumed global proportions.

The issue is pointed up in this month's edition of the Screen Actors Guild magazine. A guild official, Chester L. Migden, reported on the May conference in Stockholm of unionists representing actors in 13 countries, including those behind the Iron Curtain.

Nations participating were Canada, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, United Kingdom and the United States.

The principal concern of the conference was how to provide actors with more returns from the sale of movies to television. As of now, American actors are virtually the only ones who receive royalties from TV movies.

"The lack of payment to foreign actors when (imported) pictures go on television in the U.S.," says Migden, has the effect of undercutting our formula by depressing prices paid for theatrical product on television.

"Shouldn't the actor who works in a picture in England or France be paid when his picture goes on television?"

The high stakes involved are demonstrated by recent sales. Last week the American Broadcasting Co. bought 16 recent Columbia Picture releases—including Ship Of Fools, King Rat and The Collector—for $500,000 each. CBS bought 14 Warner Brothers films at $550,000 each.

Migden observed that during a typical week Los Angeles channels showed 263 old features, of which 45 were foreign-made and hence produced no royalties for actors.

East German Actor Defects To West

MALMOE, Sweden (AP)—An East German actor, Hans-Dieter Deutler, 29, defected to Sweden Monday by jumping more than 12 feet from a ferry in the harbor of Trelleborg in southern Sweden. Deutler injured his legs in the jump. He was taking part in a film which was being shot aboard the ferry.

Sinatra And Bride Arrive In London

SHE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR . . .

Hitch Deals In Nightmares But Hates Sound Of Ketchup

NEW YORK (AP)—As a life-long dealer in nightmares, Alfred Hitchcock has a private terror of his own.

It isn't the sight of blood. It's the sound of ketchup.

"I want you to take this down carefully because it is of the utmost significance," said the portly master of filmed suspense as he forked the slender lamb chop huddled like a victim in his luncheon plate.

"The reason I hate ketchup is that it is connected with the most unpleasant sound in the world—the sound of a hand smashing the bottom of a ketchup bottle.

"As a result of this sound, some horrible looking red goo slowly emerges from the neck of the bottle and lays itself over some perfectly innocent French fried potatoes, which never harmed anyone in their life."

Work, wine and food make up the wonderful world of Alfred Hitchcock, and he loves to discourse amiably about all three. One of his favorite dinners was an all-blue meal he threw as a practical joke for the late Gertrude Lawrence.

"I served blue soup, blue bread, blue trout, blue chicken and blue ice cream," he recalled fondly. "It was quite a success."

He has a private wine cellar of 4,000 bottles, including some going back to 1890 for which he has been offered $100 a bottle by other connoisseurs. He uncorks them sparingly because, as usual, he is having waistline trouble. His weight hovers around 218.

The director is famed for his equanimity. Methodically, he sketches his scenes in advance, never raises his voice or bothers to look through a camera on set. Of temperamental directors he remarked dryly:

"All their drama is on the set and none on the screen."

This is a golden year for "Hitch," and filmdom is helping him celebrate it. It marks the completion of his 50th motion picture—Torn Curtain, starring Paul Newman and Julie Andrews.

Hitchcock started as an advertising layout artist for a London department store. His first job in the movies was writing titles in silent films. The first one he directed was The Pleasure Garden, made in Munich in 1925.

"I've been through a lot of famous titles since then," he remarked. He turned out Britain's first all-talking picture, Blackmail, in 1929, and became a top figure in Hollywood in 1939 with his first American-made film, Rebecca.

His own favorites among the half a hundred that bear his imprint include Spellbound, Lifeboat, Shadow of a Doubt, Rear Window and Psycho.

Rock 'N' Rollers Worry Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council voted Thursday to place tighter restrictions on rock-and-roll shows that come here.

Police are to have full control of the curtain, lighting and sound. Promoters must post bonds to cover property damage and injury to policemen, and promoters must prove that adequate safety and security measures have been taken.

Council's move followed a show by Britain's Rolling Stones July 19 in which several policemen were injured in a near-riot of teen-agers.

FM Fan-Fare

By Charles Patrick

Last Saturday evening at the Kelowna Community Theatre, this writer had one of the most refreshing theatrical experiences he had ever enjoyed. The Knack, performed by The Mac 4 Theatre Society of Calgary was, I felt, for Kelowna audiences a break-through. At first there were isolated explosions of laughter accompanied by some tentative chuckles and a few sniggers. The large audience seemed apprehensive as the players immediately attacked.

As they attacked their lines again and again with superb delivery and beautifully paced timing, you could feel the rising response of the audience evidenced by the total laughter that established before the end of the first act and which became the standard until the final curtain. The tremendous explosion of howling laughter ignited by one simple line from Tom as he answered Tolin's question as to his morality is one I'll never forget.

That combusive moment was for me, in reflection, the realization that a Kelowna audience had, in spite of themselves, been triggered into a quite unintentional admission they were capable of laughing at life as it can be.

I felt that as an audience they would never be quite the same again in viewing local theatre. They broke through to a higher standard of appreciation of so-called avant garde theatre. It took this superb little troupe, however, to turn the trick. They didn't do it by the accident of the script which was excellent. But, it took good direction and excellent interplay and teamwork as well as outstanding individual well-etched characterizations to "put it over." Anything less than this effort would have created an embarrassing flop.

I feel now, that the time has arrived for local Thespians to recognize that the standards are being set for them to meet with more vigorous and vital attack on plays that are something more than nice and safe and comfortable vehicles.

This is going to take consideration by those responsible in all areas of local drama. It indicates too that the University Women's Club can be thanked for their vision and enterprise in sponsoring such effort as The Knack. Their courage in reaching out and giving in the middle of summer, a Kelowna public an opportunity to see what has been judged by Dominion Drama Festival authorities as best presentation with best actor and best actress, is certainly to be lauded. This trend is good for standards both on the stage and in audience appreciation of modern theatre, which like many things today is changing rapidly. A good play by a good cast can make the difference between understanding today's moral confusion and being confused by it. And good comedy through the resulting laughter can, I feel, be the best formula of all.

DRAMA AND FOOTBALL

On CJOV-FM this fall and winter, there will be occasions when plays of importance done by the finest actors and actresses will be presented via broadcasts of albums that are collectors items. Watch out for such plays as "Dylan" starring Alex Guinness and Kate Reid, "Ivanov" starring Vivienne Leigh and Sir John Gielgud and others of this highest calibre. For football culturists throughout the valley, CJOV-FM will provide, along with CKOV, the B.C. Lions football broadcasts. Wherever the Lions may play as they try for the coveted honor of competing in the final Grey Cup event, their efforts will be described over a network of private stations. OV-AM & FM are exclusive carriers of these games in the Okanagan.

Those FM listeners who feel "gypped" at having to forego the usual music fare when the games are featured are asked to understand our purpose. Simply, that CJOV-FM's signal strength covers 50 miles radius and those within it who appreciate football, will, because of OV-FM, be able to hear the games. It's a matter of attempting to provide the best service to all segments of our audience whether in music, arts and sciences, or sports. After all our program pre-empts are not unlike TV's, and by now the audience should be well conditioned to this climate of affairs via that medium.

Gordon Bromley's Premiere Of Music Sunday at 3 p.m. looks like good entertainment. Mae West will be back on this show in a new album—yes, she's still around. Leonard Bernstein's NY Philharmonic will be on deck too in a new form.

Strings and Things Sunday 8 to 10 p.m. will have John Fisher with progress highlights about Canada's Centennial. On Tuesday's Comedy Star Time at 4 to 5 and 10 to 11 p.m. catch Washington is for the Birds—it's great for new laughs.

Displaced from Wednesday, Aug. 3rd, Gilbert & Sullivan's HMS Pinafore goes at 9 p.m. Wednesday, August 10.

Sales At Sotheby's Reach Record High

LONDON (AP) — Sotheby's, the London and New York fine art auctioneers, announced Sunday that their sales reached a record high in both cities totaling $59,994,816 in 1965-66. Sotheby's Parke-Bernet galleries in New York accounted for $23,520,000.

Hollywood Lists Queries

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here are the questions which Universal Studio tour guides say visitors ask most often—with answers by the guides and others:

Q. (To make-up men): Which stars are hardest to get along with?

A. You cannot develop a rotten attitude and rise to the level stars have reached. Well liked by the crews are Barbara Stanwyck, Julie Andrews and Rock Hudson.

Q. How can I get rid of lines and wrinkles in my face?

A. The least amount of make-up is the most helpful. Plus a good moisturizer. On the screen, lighting and camera filters help.

Q. (To stuntmen): How do you get to be a stuntman?

A. There's no school for stuntmen. You have to know one, then start training with him.

Q. What becomes of an actress' wardrobe?

A. Some things go into the wardrobe department. Sometimes an actress buys her costume, or it's given to her.

Q. How do you become a movie star?

A. Try to get bit parts and work your way up.

The Duke of Wellington was amazed that Canada escaped conquest in the War of 1812 and believed that only the incompetence and inadequacy of the American commanders could account for such a phenomenon.

This is only one of the sharp glimpses of the past which are the chief virtue of J. Mackay Hitsman's first book, The Incredible War of 1812 (University of Toronto Press). Dr. Hitsman has been an archivist for the Canadian Army for 20 years.

A full and complete one-volume history of the only time Canada ever fought its powerful neighbor has long been needed and this fills the bill. Not only are the individual campaigns, on land and water, described clearly, but the whole war is related to bigger and vaguer events, such as U.S. westward expansion and Britain's war with Napoleon.

The book's chief virtue is that it is willing to take a position on what happened by intention and what happened by accident, as well as describing the alternative plans of retreat the British had up their sleeves. Thus it makes sense out of a confused period in which both armies won surprising victories and underwent dismal defeats.

The language of The Incredible War Of 1812 is less than lively, so it is hard to imagine casual readers plowing all the way through to the end just for pleasure. But historians will probably come to rely on it and it makes entertaining browsing for the layman.

Little Brown and Co. (Canada) Ltd. has announced its 1967 Canadian Children's Book Award. A prize of $1,000 will be given for the best juvenile manuscript written by a Canadian citizen or resident. Manuscripts may be fiction or non-fiction and must be written in English. Closing date of the contest is Jan. 31, 1967.

Great Canadians is the weakest of the three or four books of the dozen in the Canadian Centennial Library which have appeared so far.

It is an anthology of short word-pictures of 25 great figures of Canadian history, written by 25 distinguished modern Canadians, with photographs and colored illustrations by Franklin Arbuckle.

The selection was chosen not by the Centennial Library's editors, Pierre Berton and Ken Lefolli, but by a special committee headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey and including historian Hilda Neatby of the University of Saskatchewan.

An introduction by Berton records that the committee decided at the start to exclude political figures such as MacDonald and Laurier and a personal emphasis adds regret that the committee did not approve Berton's own choices, including Louis Riel, Norman Bethune and John W. Diefenbaker.

Some of the figures in the book are to be expected: Dr. Banting, Tom Thomson and Alexander Graham Bell. Others are almost unknown these days, except to a specialist, but more are a kind of pleasant surprise: Alain Grandbois the poet, Emily Carr the painter, Lord Strathcona of the CPR and Dr. J. B. Tyrrell, the geologist and explorer.

The contributors to the book are highly qualified informants in their fields: Gen. F. F. Worthington writes about Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, pilot Grant McComachie writes about pilot Punch Dickin, M. J. Coldwell writes about J. S. Woodsworth, poet James Reaney discusses poet E. J. Pratt, and so forth.

Arbuckle's illustrations are mostly copies of well-known photographs of the individual people. This makes them more recognizable but less interesting than might have been expected.

There are also weaknesses in the text, for example when Reaney says Ned Pratt described the muskeg of Northern Ontario as "a reptile asleep"—it was the rock formations he had in mind.

DROP SKULL PHOTOS

SAIGON (Reuters)—U.S. aircraft Thursday showered more than 3,000,000 photographs of a dead North Vietnamese soldier's skull on to cities east of Hanoi in one of the largest propaganda drops of the year, a U.S. spokesman said Friday.
